The miniature games come from several sources, including ChessBase 1.0 and the work of Chris Ward, Ken Whyld, Roman Pelts, Lev Alburt, I. A. Horowitz, Fred Reinfeld, and James Eade. The exact details of the games differed a few times from one source to the next. This is no surprise to anyone who's ever notated their own games. In the heat of competition, it's incredibly easy to forget to write down a move or two, or to slip into unreadable scribbling. While the sources agreed on the final positions of these miniature games, there were minor discrepancies about the order of some moves and about exactly where or when certain games were played. When certain moves and about exactly where or when certain games were played. When certain moves and about exactly where or when certain games were played.
